BOSSERMAN'S COURT

A Long and Lively Session Held This Forenoon.

MR. WILFONG A WITNESS.

The Interesting Story Related by Him of a Barroom Brawl Last Saturday Night.

An even half dozen tattered and tired men occupied seats in the long row of straight-backed chairs that parallel the east wall of the city police court this morning. Picturesque they were—and interesting—for they were the straggling remnant of a once magnificent army—a Coxey army.

Hope, interest, indifference, dejection, misery and despair in turn were depicted on their faces. A seventh man, who sat like a stoic in the far corner of the dock, was a receptacle of all the various sensations. Their stories ranged from prosperity to hard times. All were looking for the same thing—work; all were doing the same thing—walking. Twenty dollars was the lowest fine. Judge Bosserman assessed it in order to demonstrate to the commonweal that the majesty of the law must be upheld; then to prove that justice should be tempered with mercy, he remitted the fines, and the men of forlorn hope were admonished to resume their separate vocations within six hours—that is, walk on.

Not a single violation of the Sunday closing law was reported in police court. In the forenoon about 10 o'clock, however, a policeman discovered an intoxicated man in an alley. The man was arrested. He said his name was Jacob Rymer, and conceded that he had the forethought to lay in a supply of liquor on Saturday evening in anticipation of a "dry" Sabbath. The drouth was on hand, as expected, and Mr. Rymer put it out as per previously arranged programme. His fine was only $5.

The barroom brawl of Saturday night on West Main street proved to be far more interesting than first reports indicated. It also developed that Mr. Quinn, proprietor of the place, was in nowise to blame for the melee, but was acting the part of peacemaker. He was honorably dismissed. W. W. Glenn and William Umbles, participants, were also discharged.

Wade Wilfong, whom everybody concedes possesses much latent dramatic ability, was placed on the witness stand and detailed the entire affair in a vivid and startling manner. Wade's justly celebrated style of delivery and gentle inflection added a charm to the story, and so affecting was it that ere he had concluded five policemen went out—to make additional arrests of those implicated. Wade said:

"I wuz standin' right along on Main street at de confuion ob Osage near dis man (indicating Rafe Yancey, a prisoner) said 'Dars two tough men.' As he said dat he p'inted at John Jackson and Frank Barnett who wuz a lookin' in a winder whar de electric light wuz a shinin' and a sparklin' 'bout amony de numerous bottles ob Old Crow and Oscar Pepper. Jackson hea'ed him or he seemed to, but he neber said a word. Took him smack! right in de back ob de head. Down he went. Fell against annudder man. Two down. Up comes one ob 'em, snatches up a spittoon. Swipe! Takes annudder man along side de head. Down he goes. Dey wuz inside de do' by dis and Jackson wuz a fightin' like all jenny. Two or tree udder men attempted to interfere when Frank Barnett he shouts: 'Don't jump on John Jackson! Don't jump on John Jackson!'

"Nobody jumped, but de people in de house seem'd to be gittin' sadly disentangled into de embroglio when de policemen dey came. About seben men seemed to be gittin' up off de flo', but nobody didn't seem to be gittin' off ob John Jackson.

"Frank Barnett wuz a waitin'. De police commenced arrestin' men. He walks boldly up and says to John Jackson, clappin' him ha'd like on de shoulder, 'You is my prisoner; don't you da'h to resist.' Jackson submitted quietly and Barnett took him across de street, whar dey sat down on a do' step and expostulated 'bout de fracas. De res' ob de men wuz put in de calaboose."

Warrants were issued for John Jackson and Frank Barnett for disturbing the peace by fighting. They gave a joint bond of $50 for their appearance on next Friday morning.

LOST HER LOVER.

The Dethronement of Her Reason Soon Followed.

Maggie Moore, alias Nora Harris, a young girl of 20 years and an inmate of the Chicago house, is in a precarious condition, her reason being dethroned, caused, it is said, by a separation from her lover, Jack McGugerty, who was convicted of vagrancy in the police court recently and given an opportunity to leave town. He is now in Joplin, and a letter received from him today shows that he is utterly unworthy the love of even a woman of the town.

Maggie is the daughter of Richard Moore, a farmer who lives three and one-half miles from Clifton City. She attended school in Sedalia, she says, and has relatives here, but the DEMOCRAT withholds their names at the girl's request.

A brother of the unfortunate girl, John Moore, called at the Chicago house last Saturday night, he having received an intimation that his sister was a boarder there. She was going under the name of Nora Harris, however, and he failed to see her. The crazed girl learned of his visit, though, and begged that he be not allowed to visit her, as she feared harm at his hands.

Jessie Browning, the landlady, is doing everything possible for the misguided girl, and has supplied her with the best medical attention, but, as stated, her condition is precarious.

If Maggie is able to travel, she will be taken to the home of her parents tomorrow.

COMMITTEE AT WORK.

The Convention Hall Project Under Discussion Today.

Messrs. Edward Hurley, Joseph G. White and J. E. Ritchey, the committee appointed to secure plans and specifications for a convention hall to be erected in Sedalia, as fully outlined in the SUNDAY MORNING DEMOCRAT, held a meeting at the office of Mr. Ritchey this forenoon.

Architects Bast and Epperson were present, and, after ascertaining what was contemplated, agreed to submit plans and specifications for the proposed building, with an estimate as to the cost, at a meeting to be held next Thursday night.

Mr. Hurley was seen this afternoon by a DEMOCRAT reporter and said: "We can do nothing further in the matter until the plans are submitted, but in the meantime the committee will look around for eligible sites and secure figures as to the cost in each case. I have strong hopes that something tangible will come of the movement."

Work for Pullman Mechanics.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 27.—A meeting of about forty Pullman mechanics was held yesterday to consider the project of moving in a body to Kansas, where, it is claimed, work has been offered there. It was stated again at the meeting that the men believed they would be given employment in car works to be built especially for them by a capitalist at Hiawatha, Kas.

The leaders announced to the men the only step necessary for ex-employees of the Pullman company wanting work was to secure recommendations from the foremen of their respective departments. A committee was appointed to see that such recommendations were properly made out. It was also determined to send the committee to Hiawatha to look into the scheme carefully.

A Sunday Morning Fire.

The vacant building on Fourth, between Lamine and Massachusetts streets, owned by Mrs. C. Landmann, and formerly occupied by the New York bakery, was discovered to be on fire in the rear about 6 o'clock Sunday morning. Both hose companies responded, and the blaze was soon extinguished. The loss was small and fully covered by insurance. The fire is believed to have been caused by movers who camped in the building over night.

THE SABBATH GAME.

The St. Louis Foresters Defeated by a Score of 20 to 10.

JERRY KANE AS BACKSTOP

He Formerly Played With the St. Louis Browns—Not as Good a Game as on Last Saturday.

The nine young men who represent Sedalia on the ball field took sweet revenge yesterday for their defeat of Saturday by defeating the Foresters of St. Louis, 20 to 10.

The good playing of the previous day and the close score had the effect of attracting a good Sunday crowd, but they were not treated to anything like as good a game as on Saturday, the fielding of both nines being wretched at times.

The visitors were unfortunate in having Geraghty, their first baseman, injured in practice, one of his thumbs being dislocated, necessitating the placing of John Stobel, a Sedalia boy, in right field, and a general shifting of the nine. That the accident weakened the team some is probably true, but even had they presented the club intact defeat would have been their portion.

Stobel distinguished himself by catching a fly in right field, retiring the Sedalias when they had the bases full, but at the bat he was a dead easy mark, and Gilpatrick had no difficulty in fanning him out every time he came to the bat.

The Foresters evidently anticipated victory, as they had as their backstop Jerry Kane, who was with the St. Louis Browns one season and made a very creditable showing in league company. Schwartz, who

HE'S NOT A BIGAMIST.

George W. Turnell Returns to Sedalia to Take the Jag Cure.

George W. Turnell, who left Sedalia some weeks ago with a female other than his wife, came in from Higginsville yesterday and is being treated for the liquor habit by Dr. J. A. Grimes.

Mr. Turnell was seen by a DEMOCRAT reporter this morning and denied that he was married to the woman in whose company he left Sedalia. He admits having been improperly intimate with her, but attributes his downfall to an over-indulgence in liquor.

He has been down in the Indian territory for some time past, but recently returned to the confederate home at Higginsville. Friends there were anxious to have him take the liquor cure here, he says, and as they raised the necessary funds to pay all of his expenses he consented to place himself under Dr. Grimes' treatment.

Mr. Turnell says he has not visited his wife since his return, as he understands she has cast him off, and he has no desire to force his presence upon her. He proposes to make an earnest effort to reform, and the DEMOCRAT hopes he will succeed.

COMING TO SEDALIA.

The Schmeltzers Here Next Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The Schmeltzers, the champions of Kansas City and Western Missouri, who play with the Sedalias next Friday, Saturday and Sunday, have made a splendid record this year, their victories being as follows:

Defeated the Independence club of Independence, Mo.; the Man-

begin preaching until a few months ago. He has been very active since. Ingersoll is named in honor of the celebrated agnostic, Robert G. Ingersoll.

Two weeks ago, without any encouragement from the people down there, Burch resolved to give them a sample of his style of gospel, and on Sunday, August 12, he fired the first gun. Interest was soon manifested, and the people for miles around ceased their daily avocations and turned their attention to the meeting. Three hundred conversions are announced as a result of the revival. The infidel name of the town, Ingersoll, has been dropped, and that of Edson adopted in its stead. There was only one saloon in the place prior to the revival, but now its doors are closed and the owner away seeking a location elsewhere.

Mr. Burch, it is understood, will shortly resign from the telegraph service and will engage altogether in the business of saving souls.

THE tariff bill becomes a law at 12 o'clock tonight.

CONGRESS will adjourn at 2 o'clock to-morrow.

THE convention hall can be built this fall if every citizen will help a little.

THE democratic campaign is warming up, and every day the superiority of the democratic ticket becomes more apparent.

THE democratic party has not eradicated all the evils in our tariff system, but it has made a pretty good beginning.

THE republican party adopted a tariff system ostensibly to "protect American labor" and then, at the instigation of John Sherman, passed a law authorizing the importation of alien contract labor to cheapen wages.

THE democratic party proposes to raise a large part of the revenue necessary to carry on the government by levying a tax upon the income of the millionaire. The republican policy is to make the toiling masses pay the taxes.

THE Democrat-News reports that Marshall has already raised $10,000 as a fund with which to secure the Odd Fellows' Home. The business men of Marshall are hustlers and they are not backward about opening their pocket books when the advancement of the town is the object.

THE Review Edition of the Springfield Democrat is one of the handsomest and most carefully prepared publications of the kind ever issued in the state, and cannot fail to be a great benefit to the Queen City of the Ozarks. The illustrations are artistic, but more valuable still is the array of facts concerning the growth, development and prospects of Springfield and tributary territory. The Democrat deserves the splendid support it is receiving from the people of Southern Missouri.

PERSONS who write to a newspaper, either to commend or condemn its course, should always sign their names to their communications. If the writer is not sufficiently certain that he is right to be willing to stand on his own platform, he should give the matter more consideration before he expresses his opinion. There is nothing more contemptible than an anonymous letter. It smacks both of malice and cowardice.

The pride of Kentucky farming has been its blue grass and fine horses. For over a half century Kentucky held the palm as a state that bred and reared the fastest trotters and animals of the purest blood. But, says the Kansas City Times, for the last dozen years Missouri has been encroaching upon the pride of Kentucky. The wealthy farmers of this state, importing their trotters from the mother state, have produced a class of flyers that bids fair to wrest the palm of victory on the turf from old Kentucky. Throughout Lafayette, Audrain, Pettis, Randolph and a score or more of Central Missouri counties are as fine blooded steppers as ever whirled a sulky around the track. This state is especially adapted to fine blue grass farms and blue grass and fine horses seem to go together. As the Missouri farmer improves the speed of his horse he enhances its value, and the great interest now being manifested in this state in fine horses is bound to enrich the stock raisers. Kentucky should look well to her laurels in this respect lest her new rival outstrip her.

THE TARIFF AND BUSINESS. The republican calamity howler is respectfully invited to read the following from that eminent republican authority, the Globe Democrat:

"Senator Davis of Minnesota is undoubtedly correct in his opinion that the enactment of the tariff bill will help business. The senator is a republican, and on this account the open expression of his favorable view appears to surprise some of the democratic papers. But there is no real reason for any surprise. He was opposed to the bill, as doubtless were nine out of every ten of his party throughout the country. Republicans in general prefer the present law to it. At the same time they see that it does not make such a radical assault on republican ideas on this question as they expected and the democrats promised. From the republican point of view it is, aside from a few vicious features like the sugar duty and the income tax, not a measure which ought to provoke profound popular hostility."

The above extract, coming from high republican sources, emphatically contradicts the calamity howler who has attempted to convince the people that laboring men would be injured by the new tariff law.

The reform has not been complete and perfect, nor could such a consummation be expected in one year.

But the income tax alone is worth all the labor that has been expended in framing the tariff bill.

THE BOOM BEGINNING. THE DEMOCRAT has confidence in Sedalia's future, and during the darkest days of the late business depression has proclaimed the truth that our splendid, progressive, growing city would be among the first to feel the impetus of renewed prosperity.

Capitalists have their eyes on Sedalia, and all the city has to do is to continue to deserve their confidence.

As an evidence of the confidence now felt in the future of the Queen City, capitalists are investigating the field with the view of investing their money.

The DEMOCRAT learns that a wealthy New York company is desirous of establishing gas works in Sedalia.

That this company has already had an agent canvass the subject among business men and property owners, and will at an early day ask the city for a franchise.

Of course this means the investment of money in buildings, in the purchase of ground and in laying mains.

It means labor for the working man and more money in circulation.

But it means, too, that shrewd business men have their eyes on Sedalia and that they regard it as a good field for investment.

LOST BOTH GAMES.

The Poor Old Jeff Citys Taken Into Camp by Mexico.

The poor old Jefferson City ball club, reorganized, was defeated by the Mexico club both Saturday and Sunday—the first game 6 to 4 and the second 8 to 6. The Tribune had this to say of Saturday's game:

The game yesterday afternoon between the Mexicos and the reorganized Jefferson Citys was the best exhibition of base ball seen at Sportsman's park this season. The new catcher for the Jeffs, proved no disappointment, and but for an error by Newbill in the left field and a lost ball, which let in three runs, the visitors could not have won. As it was the game went to them by the small score of 6 to 4.

The visitors have a good team, having a particularly strong battery. Another thing, when they swipe the ball it is to some purpose. They touched the great McHenry up, but sharp fielding saved scoring.

With the exception of a muffed ball by Lindley on third and a misjudged ball by Newbill in left field, no costly errors were made by the home team. They played ball, but if they would find the ball oftener they would make better records as batters.

While there were no plays of special merit, all the playing was above the average, and as goose egg after goose egg were laid to the credit of each side, interest reached fever heat and the rooters had their inning.

DID HE SKIP?

An Individual Who Came to Sedalia Wanted in Moberly.

A gentleman who spent the day here yesterday, he having arrived from Moberly Saturday night, was thus referred to in a Moberly dispatch to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch of yesterday:

The Moberly fair closed today. There was great excitement on account of the lack of funds to pay premiums, and threats were made to mob the manager, A. E. Ashbrook, a stranger here. He left shortly for Kansas City, promising the secretary, a Moberly man, that he would send the money from Kansas City to pay the premiums. The whole week's proceedings at the fair grounds are considered a first-class fake.

The Moberly Democrat of yesterday had the following on the subject: It was reported on the streets last night that two of Mr. Ashbrook's employes, whom he had during the fair, and who failed to get any "dough," went to Higbee late yesterday evening to find Mr. Ashbrook, and claimed they would either have the man or his scalp. We were unable to find out what the result was.

From later developments it appears that Ashbrook, late manager of the fair, took plenty of money away with him. It seems that he collected a large part of the money subscribed by the citizens, and also took all, or nearly all, the gate receipts. If he paid any one it certainly was very little, consequently his pockets are likely very well lined. It is still thought by some that Ashbrook will return and square things up.

Wants a Uniform Rule.

To the Editor of the DEMOCRAT.

It appears to me that in the construction of our sidewalks and driveways there ought to be as much uniformity as possible. Now a great majority of the property owners on Kentucky street, consequent upon a petition, received the consent of the council to occupy fifteen feet for sidewalks and grounds. On a portion of Kentucky street, one property holder out of seven wants to have the driveway changed.

We hope the city council, after a certain rule in regard to streets is adopted, will not change it.

LADIES INVITED.

A Special Invitation Extended to Those of Sedalia.

When Thomas and Frank Newton, comprising the Newton Meat Co., purchased the business of Mr. Louis Bahner, the people of Sedalia felt assured that they would soon have at their command a market not surpassed in the entire West, and the DEMOCRAT is pleased to chronicle that such has proved to be the case.

Experienced stock raisers and dealers, with a thorough knowledge of the butcher business and the proper handling and retailing of meats, the Messrs. Newton knew precisely what was needed to give Sedalia a first-class market, and they promptly set about to supply the same.

Yesterday a DEMOCRAT reporter dropped into their place of business, in the west end of the market house, and found them busily engaged in waiting upon a number of customers. An especial attraction is their cold storage refrigerator, in which is constantly kept five or six beefs, with a supply of mutton, pork, etc.

The refrigerator must be seen to be appreciated, and that their customers may know precisely how they keep their meats the Messrs. Newton respectfully invite the ladies of Sedalia to call during the present week and make a critical inspection as to their methods in serving Sedalians with the choicest of meats.

You Need a Vacation.

Just a suggestion: Why not try the Rocky Mountains? No better medicine exists than the dry, clear balsamic air of that region. Anywhere among Pike's Peak, or further into the range (like Glenwood Springs) will do. Did you whisper trout fishing? Yes, plenty of it, off the caliche or workhouse of said city from now until May first, A. D. 1895, bids to be by the perch, and 2500 pounds to constitute a perch, rock to be weighed at the city scales and no charge for weighing.

Resolution.

Be it resolved by the council of the city of Sedalia, Mo., that it deems and declares it necessary to bring to the established grade and pave or macadamize Vermont street from the south line of Main street south to the north line of Broadway street, and that this resolution be published in the newspaper doing the city printing for two (2) consecutive weeks by fourteen (14) consecutive insertions. Adopted by the council of the city of Sedalia, Mo., this 20th day of August, 1894.

Attest: Ed Hough, City Clerk.

A SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Chas. H. Streit Files it in Jackson County.

HER HUSBAND A CONVICT.

The Couple Formerly Lived in Sedalia, Streit Being Manager of the "Gazette."

Mrs. Ida B. Streit, now of Moberly, has brought suit in the Jackson county circuit court for divorce from her husband, Charles H. Streit, former manager of the Sedalia Gazette, on the ground that he has been convicted of a felony. Streit was sent to the penitentiary from St. Joseph last June for forgery. The St. Joseph Gazette of yesterday says:

When Streit was in jail in this city he received letters from his wife in which she stated that she would stand by him in all his troubles. She stated in the letters that she did not believe him guilty. It is evident that she has changed her mind since the letters were written. Streit had forged the name of Judge H. P. Lay, of Warsaw, to a note for $100 and passed it on John H. Bowman, of the Pacific house, in payment for his board bill. The forgery was not discovered for some time.

After passing the forged note Streit left the city and for several months could not be found. He was in Iowa a part of the time, but finally went back to Sedalia, where he had once been engaged in business. He was arrested there and brought back by Sheriff Carson. He said there was some mistake about the case, and claimed he was not guilty of forgery. It is believed he told his wife he was innocent, and that she believed him so that she assured him she would give him all the help in her power.

A note for $100 given by Judge Lay had been in Streit's possession, but he disposed of it before coming to St. Joseph. When the note was given to the proprietors of the Pacific house Streit asked them to telegraph Lay and find out if it was all right. Judge Lay supposed the genuine note was the one referred to in the telegram and answered that it was all right.

When Streit was arrested he said he could easily explain the matter when the case came to trial. He claimed he had made a copy of the original note, and afterwards lost the original. The genuine note was sent to this city and the two compared. It was found that they were not of the same date, and that the rate of interest was not the same. When this was pointed out to Streit he gave up all hopes of making a defense and pleaded guilty to forgery in the third degree. His punishment was fixed at two years in the penitentiary.

The young woman who is now suing Streit for divorce is of good family, and is highly respected. Streit was connected with the business department of the Sedalia Gazette while he lived in that city. His downfall is said to be due to his love for the great American game of poker. While he was in jail here evidence of his former misdeeds was sufficient to have sent him to the penitentiary for a much longer period. Streit was about 30 years old, and makes a good appearance, but his record does not bear close inspection.

AN OLD MAN KILLED.

Benj. F. Walker, of Centralia, the Victim.

Services were held last Saturday night in the Church of Christ, in Centralia, and among those attending was Benjamin F. Walker, aged 74 years, a wealthy citizen.

He started home about 9:30. The night was dark and rain was falling, and in attempting to cross the Wash track in the east part of town Mr. Walker slipped and fell in front of a swiftly approaching engine.

Before he could regain his feet he was caught on the pilot of the engine and thrown about 20 feet, his head striking the rails of the sidetrack. He was discovered shortly after and carried home, but lived only a few minutes. Besides several gashes in his head, his hips and back were broken.

RANG THEM IN.

How the Texan Manager Gathered in His Audience.

Before theaters were built in Texas companies going there would play in the school houses. A manager on his arrival in town was insured by the inhabitants whom he met that he would have a "big crowd to the show that night."

The countenance of the hopeful manager beamed with delight upon the school house after supper, for there he found such a large crowd standing at the door that he became almost delirious with the visions of the ponderous bags of silver he would carry from that town. He felt as if he walked on air as he pushed his way through the crowd, opened wide the school house doors and told the janitor to light the lamps. The lamps were soon lighted, the ticket box open, and the manager's smile reached a greater distance than he ever dreamed his month would stretch. His heart beat faster than for weeks before.

Moment by moment, however, the smile contracted, the bounding heart became more tranquil, for the doors had now been open and the lamp lighted for twenty minutes and still the crowd, which had now acquired immense proportions, remained outside. Not a soul had entered. In desperation the manager demanded of the janitor, "Why in thunder don't they come in?"

"Oh," the janitor explained, "they won't come in till you ring the bell."

The manager sprang on to the step-ladder, and with an energy which would do credit to "Curfew Shall Not Ring To-night," pulled that bell-rope until everybody in town could hear the bell ring.

The audience all rushed in and almost pulled hair for seats. The next morning this manager took away not only his large bag of silver, but with it a lesson in ringing in a Texas audience.

A REMARKABLE PLANT.

The Liver Plant Is Not Famous for Its Exquisite Perfume.

"Our thoughts of plants and flowers are generally pleasant ones, and some of the dearest memories of our lives are associated with their perfume," remarked Dr. H. L. McWillie of Nashville, as he sat sniffing the odor of a carnation, "but if I should live to be 100 years old the thought of a liver plant that it was my misfortune to see and smell on one occasion would be enough to send a shudder over me. Several years ago I was visiting relatives in Mississippi and one day after dinner my cousin asked me to go down on the lawn and see a curious plant that was growing there."

"Before we reached the spot I was cautioned to hold my nose, but I felt that such a precaution would be showing the white feather in a physician, so I marched boldly toward the queer plant. The stock and leaves were of a dull green hue, mottled all over with black spots. The bush was about two feet in height and from the top drooped a flower that looked for all the world like a tainted piece of raw liver, from which oozed a red juice, falling in bloody spots upon the leaves below. A swarm of green flies hovered over it and the strong odor it emitted was such as to convince one that some very offensive carrion was near at hand. I confess to having been made deathly sick by it and wished I had taken the friendly advice given to hold my nose."

An Ox as a Life Saver.

Oxen have not appeared often in the part of life savers, but a good peasant in the neighborhood of Flensburg, Germany, owes his life to an ox which he had purchased at the market in that town. Before starting for home the peasant had visited too many wine restaurants. Fortunately, however, someone had tied the rope which was wound around the horns of the beast to the owner's wrist. When just outside of the village he approached too close to the canal, tripped, and fell headlong into the water. The ox, frightened at the plunge, tried to run away, and thus drew the drunken man to the bank and out of the water. A number of people saw the accident.

The Lightning Flash.

That once time-honored belief with regard to a flash of lightning is becoming discredited. It used to be thought that the duration of the flash was only some excessively minute fraction of a second. But this is not so. A lightning discharge often lasts as much as two or three seconds and may be even further protracted, the longest time hitherto observed being no less than seven seconds. The ribbon-like appearance of a flash as photographed is due to the action of the wind, which bears along, so to speak, the atmospheric channel along which the lightning is traveling.

Safe Liberty.

During the rehearsals of "Romeo and Juliet" at the London lyceum, Mrs. Stirling, who is the most venerable of actresses, took occasion to remark that the nurse was not necessarily old, that she should be represented as middle-aged, etc., and she appealed to Mr. Irving. "My dear Mrs. Stirling," said the manager with delicate satire, "you may make the nurse just as youthful as you can."

Crushing.

Appropos of the fact that those who "came over in the Mayflower" mostly bore such surnames as Winthrop, Haythrop, Lothrop and Lathrop, the Cornhill Magazine tells of a New York parvenu who loudly proclaimed to a Plymouth Winthrop: "My people came over in the Mayflower." "Indeed!" was the crushing answer, "I didn't know the Mayflower took steerage passengers."

NOT LIKE HIS MOTHER'S.

The Following Is a Warning to Some Young Husbands.

Beautiful scenery here, is it not?" asked the young man of a solitary traveler whom he found pacing along the seashore.

"Well no," replied the stranger, "I can't agree with you. I think the ocean is too small. It is no such ocean as my mother used to have."

"Your mother's ocean was superior, then?"

"Oh, yes, vastly superior. What tumbling breakers! What a magnificent sweep of view! What amplitude of distance! What fishing there was in my mother's ocean!"

"But the sky is magnificent here, is it not, sir?"

"Too low and too narrow across the top," replied the stranger.

"I hadn't noticed it," said the young man.

"Yes," said the stranger, "it is too low and there isn't air enough in it, either. Besides it doesn't sit plumb over the earth; it is wider from north to south than it is from west to east. I call it a pretty poor sky. It is no such sky as my mother used to have."

"Pardon me, but did your mother have a special sky and ocean of her own?"

Right here an old resident came up and drew the young man aside.

"Don't talk with him," said the old resident. "He is a hopeless lunatic. He is a man who always used to tell his wife about 'the biscuits my mother used to make,' 'my mother's pies,' 'my mother's puddings' and 'my mother's doughnuts.' The habit grew on him so much that he became a confirmed lunatic."

REMOVED THE BIRD.

A Washington Parrot That Bothered a Preacher.

If ever there was a voluble parrot it is the accomplished African owned by Edward Cake of the Hotel Normandie at Washington. As a linguist Washington probably never had his peer.

For some reason the bird had been changed from its usual habitat and put in the linen room for the day, the windows of which are almost in touch with the swell colored church that is in close proximity to the Normandie on the north.

The excitement began when the minister gave out a well-known text. The last words had but fallen from his lips when they were shouted back at him with peculiar vehemence from the adjoining house. The congregation tried hard to preserve its dignity, for the minister stood solemn, but the effort was not a great success, and many of the younger worshippers tittered audibly. The preacher started up again, and again the bird sent back his utterance with the faithfulness of a graphophone. A song was tried and Poll got in his work just the same.

By this time it was evident that either that parrot had to be suppressed or the meeting would have to break up. A little conference was held, and it was decided to hold up the proceedings long enough for a committee to wait on Mr. Cake and ask him to remove the cause of the trouble to some other part of his hotel. That gentleman willingly acceded to the request, and the religious exercises were resumed.

FISHING WITH A BLACKSNAKE.

The Reptile Was a Born Angler and Fond of the Sport.

Here is a snake story from a Bechuanaland paper, which we do not remember having seen before: A Barberton man who goes to church regularly was one day walking along the banks of Concession creek eating a sandwich, and on account of the usual disparity between meat and bread, he threw the redundant piece into the water. Immediately a swarm of yellow fish bubbled round it fighting for the mouthful. The man searched his pockets for fishing tackle, but all in vain, and he was just beginning to die of despair when his eyes lighted on a big blacksnake. At that moment he remembered how his father used to tell him that blacksnakes were very expert in catching fish. He, therefore, grabbed the reptile by the tail, carried it to the river and held it over the struggling fish. The snake proved itself a born angler, and in the course of an hour the man had captured forty fine fish. A few days later, as he was walking in the same place he felt something rubbing against his leg, and looking down, he saw his friend, the blacksnake, eager for more sport.

A Voting Machine.

At the exhibition of progress in the Palais de l'Industrie there was on view an apparatus for collecting and registering the votes of an electoral district. In appearance it resembles a large automatic weighing machine. The voters step on the platform one after the other, when an electric bell begins to ring and does not cease until the elector has registered his vote. This is effected by pressing a button stamped with the name of his candidate. The counting apparatus records the vote along with all others on a series of disks, marking the units, tens, hundreds, etc., so that when the last voter quitted the platform any child can read off the number of votes recorded for each candidate. It is impossible for the elector to vote twice or any greater number of times, as the apparatus only acts once so long as the elector stands on the platform.

A BRAVE BRAKEMAN.

Passengers On a Mountain Train Have a Narrow Escape.

Passenger train No. 7 on the Stony Cove and Catskill Mountain Railroad, which crawls along a narrow gauge track to Hunter, N. Y., and all the way climbs a steep grade, had a narrow escape with its load of passengers last Wednesday.

While going up the mountain it met a wild train coming down. The engineer of No. 7 reversed his engine and all his crew jumped. Several passengers did likewise and escaped injury. Next came the crash, and then followed one of the wildest rides passengers ever experienced, and they were saved from a fall down the mountain side by the bravery of one man.

When the crash occurred the engine of train No. 7 was badly broken, and, being reversed under full head of steam, started backward down the mountain without driver or fireman.

It a moment terrific momentum was gained and the train of light cars rocked and rolled around the dangerous curves. Everybody had given up hope, when gradually the train slackened its speed and suddenly came to an abrupt stop.

Brakeman Orland B. Porter was the hero. He alone of all the crew had not jumped. His station was on the rear car, and when the wild run commenced he tried vainly to stop the train with brakes.

Then he heard the puffing of the engine and realized that something must be wrong there. Running through the cars he climbed into the cab and pushed the throttle and the steam was cut off. The train soon stopped.

SHE REFUSED TO ELOPE.

The Result Was a Tragedy in Which One Person Was Killed.

JOPLIN, Mo., Aug. 27.—At Wadlington, near Siloam Springs, on Thursday night, Dr. Ott, a practicing physician, shot Miss Lizzie Craig in the back and then killed himself.

Ott is a married man and has two children. He had long been in love with the girl, and she had given such encouragement to his suit that scandalous gossip started, and one of the results was an estrangement between Dr. Ott and his wife, who left him and went to Texas.

Ott urged the girl more vigorously than before to elope with him, but her regard was not developed to so lawless a pitch, and she declined the invitation. The doctor threatened to kill the girl and himself if she finally rejected his suit, but she remained firm to keep within the law.

Last Thursday his family returned from Texas unexpectedly. He called immediately upon the young lady and had a talk with her. When she started to leave the room Ott caught her and shot her in the back. Then he put a ball through his heart and fell dead. Letters found on Ott intimated that Miss Craig had promised to marry him, and he had resolved if she did not he would kill her and himself.

There was a pair of gold bracelets in his pocket, and his letter stated that they were to be placed upon the arms of Miss Craig, and that she was to be buried with him. Ott was an intelligent man and enjoyed a good practice in his neighborhood. It is thought the girl will recover.

RAILROAD RUMBLE.

A New Movement That Will Not be a Success.

THE SANTA FE STRIKERS.

Items of Interest Picked Up From Various Sources for the Benefit of "Democrat" Readers.

Railroad men are not much impressed with the new move of the "Soo" railroad, which will, beginning today, give permission to the engineers of the road to employ their own firemen.

The engineers will have the sole right to employ and discharge. The objects hoped to be gained by this departure from accepted railroad methods are to improve the personnel of the firemen, to rid the service of any jealousies that have existed, and to make every engineer interested in securing the best possible class of men for firemen.

It is also argued that the firemen will become more loyal and efficient, as their employment and promotion will depend on the recommendation of the men for whom they are firing.

"I see no advantages to be gained by such a move," said Supt. Dunlap, of the Rock Island road, "and, on the other hand, I see many disadvantages. I do not believe the objects sought for will be secured."

Supt. J. M. Warner, of the Chicago and Western Indiana, said: "I do not believe the 'Soo' scheme will be a success."

Strikers Refused Reinstatement.

The business men's committee from Argentine which went to Topeka to confer with the officials of the Santa Fe railway in regard to putting back the Argentine men who were discharged for going out in the recent strike on that system, returned last Saturday night.

The committee had a long conference with General Manager Frey, but did not accomplish anything so far as Mr. Frey's power extends. He treated the committee politely, but emphatically declared that none of the strikers would be put back to work.

He said it had only been one year since the men at Argentine went out on a strike, and, after almost tying the road up entirely, submitted to a compromise and returned to work. His confidence, he said, had been shaken and he believed the men would go out again on the slightest provocation. He did not, he said feel like turning off men who were willing to stand by the company when it was in trouble.

THE SUNFLOWER OF SIBERIA.

An Arctic Plant That Is Remarkable in More Ways Than One.

"One of the greatest curiosities I ever met with in my travels," said Professor Philip L. Newman of Cincinnati, "is the sunflower that blooms in the northern portion of Siberia, where the earth is continually covered with a coating of snow and frost. This wonderful plant shoots from the frozen soil on the first day of the year, and reaches the height of about three feet; it blooms on the third day, remains open twenty-four hours, and then returns to its original elements. It shines for a single day, then the stem, leaves, and flower are converted into snow. The leaves are three in number.

"The flower is star-shaped, its petals about as long as the leaves and about half an inch wide. The third day the extremities of the leaves show little glistening specks, like diamonds, about the size of the head of a pin. These are the seeds of this queer flower. I was told that on one occasion some of these seeds were gathered and hastily transported to St. Petersburg. They were there placed in a bed of snow, where they were kept until the first of the following year, when the sunflower burst forth and was greatly admired and wondered at by all who saw it."

FAR SEEING EGYPTIANS.

Why They Waved Wild Palm Branches Over Date Palm Flowers.

More than one thousand years ago Herodotus observed a remarkable custom in Egypt, says Professor Drummond. At a certain season of the year the Egyptians went into the desert, cut off branches from the wild palm and, bringing them back to their gardens, waved them over the flowers of the date palm. Why they performed this ceremony they did not know, but they knew that if they neglected it the date crop would be poor or wholly lost.

Herodotus offers the quaint explanation that along with these branches there came from the desert certain flies possessed of a "vivifying virtue," which somehow lent an exuberant fertility to the dates. But the true rationale to the incantation is now explained. Palm trees, like human beings, are male and female. The garden plants, the date bearers, were females, the desert plants were males and the waving of the branches over the females meant the transference of the fertilizing pollen from the one to the other.

THE MASHER'S MISTAKE.

A Thick Veil Deluded Him and Spoiled a Suggestion of Supper.

An elderly lady who keeps a fashionable New York school, and who lays no claim to good looks, tells the following as a joke on herself:

"The other night I left the home of a friend half a mile above my house. It was pouring with rain. I had on a heavy mackintosh and a thick veil, but no umbrella. I started to walk home, when a swell-looking young man approached, raised his hat with a mashing smile, and asked me to come under his umbrella. I took his arm with a smile and walked with him to my door. He said sweet things all the way. When I reached my door I thanked him for his sheltering escort. He suggested a little supper. I said:

"Young man, whom do you take me for?" at the same time raising my veil and looking at him in the full glare of the electric light. He jumped half way across the street and cried: "The devil!"

Impossible Under the Circumstances.

A gentleman, accompanied by a lady wearing a handsome dress and bonnet, came out of the Albert Hall one night to find it raining, while they were without umbrella or waterproof clothing. "Why, Charles!" the lady cried, "it's raining." "So I see," said Charles, calmly. "Well, what shall we do?" "I rather think we shall have to let it rain," replied the matter-of-fact husband. Excited by the disaster awaiting her garments, the lady amused the bystanders greatly by saying: "Why, Charles, how can we, when I have on this light dress and bonnet?"

Gounod's Lesson in Modesty.

Gounod, the great musician who died a few months ago, was once waited upon by a young poet anxious for guidance in some work on which he was engaged at the time. Advice was generously given, and then, struck perhaps by his friend's demeanor, Gounod, told him that as he grew in his art he could judge of the masters of the past as he (Gounod) now judged of the famous composers of former days. "At your age," Gounod proceeded, "I used to say 'I; at 25 I said 'I and Mozart'; at 40 'Mozart and I.' Now I say 'Mozart.'"

As to Candidates' Expenses.

Attorney General Frank Walker, in a late letter to Judge Murray, chairman of the Vernon county central committee, among other things, in reference to the time of filing expense accounts of candidates, provided for by the corrupt practice act, says: "I understand the corrupt practice act to require a candidate to make a statement of all expenses incurred, beginning with his canvass and ending with his election or defeat."

It is understood a candidate who is defeated in the primary election should file his statement thirty days after the primary election, and a nominee should file his statement within thirty days after the election.
